

[M] | WHEN WILL I RECEIVE THE JUDGE'S ORDER?

If the Judge does not permit additional information to be submitted after the hearing, the case ends on the last day of the hearing. Generally the parties may submit proposed orders within 10 days after the close of the hearing or the filing of the official transcript, whichever is later. Normally, the Judge will issue a written decision within 20 days after the parties filed their proposed orders. If the parties ask for and are allowed more time to file their proposed orders, the Judge will attempt to issue the written decision within 30 days after the proposed orders.
